HENRY COUNTY FAMILY COURT

The Courts of Common Pleas in Ohio have four divisions; general, domestic relations, juvenile, and probate. In the past, Henry County had one judge overseeing all four divisions, while most other counties had two or more judges in their Common Pleas Courts. Commencing January 1, 2005, the divisions were separated into General-Probate and Domestic Relations-Juvenile. This has resulted in two Common Pleas Judges, one for each of the newly defined divisions of the Court. Since 2005, Judge Denise Herman McColley has presided over the Family Court.

The Juvenile Division is responsible for hearing delinquency and unruly child proceedings and juvenile traffic offender and juvenile tobacco offender proceedings. This division is also responsible for hearing proceedings against adults for contributing to the unruliness or delinquency of a child or failure to send a child to school. Juvenile cases include abuse, neglect and/ or dependency proceedings, as well as allocation of parental rights & responsibility, and child support proceedings for those parents who have not been married to one another.

The Domestic Relations Division is responsible for hearing annulment, legal separation, divorce, and dissolution of marriage proceedings. This division is also responsible for post-divorce, dissolution and legal separation motions, Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (UIFSA) proceedings, as well as civil domestic violence and conciliation proceedings.

The Henry County Family Court works to bring about results that are fair, just, and in compliance with the law. The Court and its officers are committed to helping rehabilitate juvenile offenders as well as assist families in transition to resolve their disagreements about finances, property, and, especially, to resolve their disputes regarding children. The Court is committed to serving the best interests of families by creating solutions, resolving disputes and helping families transition smoothly into a new family situation.

JUVENILE COURT/PROBATION PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

Intake

Upon the filing of a complaint by law enforcement, a determination is made whether the case should be scheduled for an Official Hearing before the Judge or Magistrate or scheduled for an Unofficial or Diversion Hearing. In general, first time offenders who have committed a misdemeanor offense may be eligible for an Unofficial Hearing. All felony offenses and drug-related offenses are scheduled for Official Hearings.

Other responsibilities required during the intake process include information gathering by contacting the schools for attendance, grades, and disciplinary reports, investigating the amount of restitution due to the victims, and referring the cases to the Victim Advocate when required.

Unofficial Hearings

An Unofficial Hearing is scheduled for the youth and his/her parent(s) before the Magistrate of the Court. The youth must be willing to admit his/her involvement in the offense. Youth are given a variety of consequences which may include curfews, community service hours, Substance Abuse Education Program, Theft Offenders Program, apology letters, and operator's license suspensions. If the youth successfully completes his requirements, the case is closed and the youth is deemed not to have a formal juvenile record.

Official Probation

One of the most common dispositions in the Juvenile Court is probation. In 2011, 104 juveniles were supervised on probation. Probation Officers attended a total of 452 Court hearings and 45 Probation Violations or Motions to Revoke were filed.

Probation Officers are responsible for supervising youth that are placed on probation by the Court and monitoring the youth's compliance with Court orders. Supervision is provided through home visits, school visits, and office visits. Officers also visit youth who are placed outside the home in foster care, residential placements, or incarcerated at the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention Center. Probation Officers maintain regular contact with parents, school personnel, and service providers. Probation Officers attend IEP and other school meetings, case plan and semi-annual review meetings with the Henry County Department of Job and Family Services.

A Probation Officer attends each scheduled Court hearing regarding a youth. They are responsible for providing the Court with recommendations regarding disposition as well as progress made by the youth. At the request of the Court, a pre-dispositional report will be completed by interviewing the parents, youth, school personnel, and other service providers. All three Probation Officers are certified in the Ohio Youth Assessment which was developed by the University of Cincinnati. This assessment determines the youth's risk level, areas needing treatment, and also measures progress. The assessment is completed on each youth placed on probation and can also be used as a pre-dispositional tool.

All probationers are subject to random drug screens. A positive rapid drug screen completed in the office is confirmed by laboratory analysis. Probation Officers may take a variety of actions as a result of a positive drug screen including referral for treatment or a probation violation being filed with the Court.

The Probation Department provides an on-call officer, available 24 hours a day, for law enforcement to contact when severe juvenile related matters occur. A Probation Officer can authorize a youth's incarceration at the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention Center or assist in determining an alternative placement pending a Court hearing.

Unruly Conferences

Probation Officers will also conduct an informal conference with an unruly juvenile at the request of parents, school officials, and law enforcement officers. Probation Officers advise the youth and parents of possible consequences should the undesirable behavior continue as well as make appropriate referrals for services that may be helpful to the youth and family.

OUT OF HOME PLACEMENTS

There are some youth in Henry County who require placement outside of their home either in a secure or non-secure facility. The decision to remove a child from his home is never taken lightly and is used as a last resort when community based services have been exhausted.

Ohio Department of Youth Services

The Ohio Department of Youth Services is the state correctional system for juvenile offenders ages 10-18 who commit felony level offense. The commitments range from a minimum period of 6 months to a maximum period of the youth's 21st birthday. The Department provides treatment and educational programming to meet each youth's needs. A Parole Officer is assigned to the youth upon release to assist their transition from the institution back into the community. Henry County Juvenile Court committed two youth to the Department of Youth Services in 2011.

Juvenile Residential Center of Northwest Ohio

The Juvenile Residential Center of Northwest Ohio located in Bowling Green, Ohio is a secure 42 bed treatment facility for male youth adjudicated of a felony offense. The Juvenile Residential Center is used as an alternative for youth who may have otherwise been placed at the Department of Youth Services. The facility offers numerous treatment options that are supported by research and practice. Individualized treatment is based upon a youth's specific needs and families are included in counseling sessions. The close proximity of the facility makes family involvement realistic. Five youth were placed at the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Residential Center in 2011.

Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention Center

Henry County Juvenile Court utilizes the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention, Training, and Rehabilitation Center located in Stryker, Ohio for short term incarceration of youth who have been adjudicated a delinquent child, youth in pre-trial status that are not safe to be released to the community pending adjudication, and youth awaiting transport to another facility. Henry County Juvenile Court contracts for 6 beds in the facility. In 2011, 43 different youth were placed at the detention center. However, 17 of those same youth were detained on more than one occasion.

Youth are provided with many services while incarcerated at the Juvenile Detention Center. Mental Health services and evaluations are provided to youth by Four County Family Center. Alcohol/drug assessments and treatment are provided by Recovery Services of Northwest Ohio. Many other groups such as Life Skills, Strategies for Anger Management, Conflict Resolution, Girls Circle, and Boys Council are facilitated by staff employed by the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention, Training, and Rehabilitation Center.

Foster Care/Residential Treatment

The Court is occasionally faced with a youth on probation that for a variety of reasons cannot be maintained in their home and a secured facility is not appropriate or necessary. Community based and in-home services provided to the family have not been effective. In these cases, the Court places the youth in the custody of the Henry County Department of Job and Family Services for placement in a foster home, group home, or residential placement. The goal is continued involvement with the youth's family and eventual reunification or in the case of older youth, independent living. During 2011, 6 youth were in the Department of Job and Family Services' custody.

Restitution and Community Service

In 2011, 73 youth were ordered to complete Community Service as a part of their disposition. A grant obtained from the Ohio Department of Youth Services enables the Probation Department to provide youth the opportunity to complete Community Service to pay restitution owed to a victim. A total of 6 youth were able to pay restitution to victims in the amount of $1,199.38 through this program. Community Services is completed at public worksites such as the Henry County Humane Society, Henry County Landfill, schools, and area churches.

The program is provided at no cost to the family. Eight families attended Choices and Promises in 2011.

- Court Assessments

In some cases, determining appropriate custody, placement and treatment can be a very difficult and complex task. # DOMESTIC RELATIONS COURT PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

The Domestic Relations Division of the Family Court hears all cases concerning the termination of marriages filed in Henry County. These include divorce, dissolution, legal separation, annulment and the issuance of civil protection orders arising out of domestic violence. The Court also hears all matters associated with these cases such as determining parental rights and responsibilities or custody, child support, spousal support or alimony, property division and debt allocation. Cases filed under the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act are also heard by the Domestic Relations Division. These involve actions started in another state but enforced in Ohio when the support is owed by an Ohio resident.

TERMINATION OF MARRIAGE

Ohio residents have the option of terminating their marriages either (a) by agreement through dissolution or (b) by filing a divorce action. In addition, the spouses may want to remain married but formalize their rights and duties through a Court-ordered legal separation.

A. Dissolution

In a dissolution, spouses end their marriage by agreement without stating why they want the marriage ended. They must agree to all matters – including property and debt division, parental rights and duties, and spousal support (if any) – and put that in the form of a written contract or separation agreement.

B. Divorce

In a divorce, the parties are not in agreement with all of the necessary issues involved in terminating a marriage and require a Judge's decision. There are several grounds for divorce under Ohio Revised Code section 3105.01. The most commonly cited are: incompatibility, living separate and apart for more than a year, adultery, extreme cruelty, and gross neglect of duty. Couples can also get a divorce for bigamy, fraudulent contract, habitual drunkenness, or imprisonment for a felony.

C. Post-Decree Motions

After a divorce or dissolution proceeding is final, more disputes may arise between former spouses. The Court has the authority to modify the orders related to any minor children, if certain requirements are met, and to enforce all orders issued by the Court. Parties to the case bring those matters to the Court's attention through a written motion or request for additional orders. These motions are called "post-decree motions" because they are filed after the final decree of divorce or dissolution; they re-open the original divorce or dissolution case.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Civil Protection Orders (CPOs)

The Domestic Relations Court hears cases involving requests for civil protection orders (CPOs). A CPO is an order that prohibits a person from contacting or coming around another person; it may also remove a person from a shared home, if there is violence, and make orders regarding the parties' minor children. A CPO may be issued as a Domestic Violence CPO, where the parties are related to one another in certain ways, or as a Stalking or Sexually Oriented Offense CPO, where there may be no family or intimate relationship between the parties but one party is stalking or has sexually assaulted the other. The person filing the petition for a CPO is called the "petitioner," while the person against whom the order is sought is the "respondent."

If the Court issues an emergency CPO against the respondent, the CPO will be delivered to the respondent by the Sheriff of the County where the respondent lives and a full hearing, or trial, will be scheduled within the next 7 to 10 Court days. If the parties agree that a CPO should be issued, they can both sign a Consent Agreement for a CPO and give it to the Court to approve. If the parties do not agree, the Court will issue a decision about whether the CPO should be granted.

A respondent may be arrested and convicted of a criminal offense for violating a CPO if the respondent has been served with the CPO and as long as that CPO is in effect. Even if the petitioner gives the respondent permission to violate the order, the respondent may be charged with a criminal offense. It is the respondent's responsibility to follow the order. If either party believes the order should be changed, that party can file a motion to modify the CPO; the Court will schedule a hearing to decide if the CPO should be modified. The issuance of a CPO may affect a respondent's rights to have a firearm or to hold certain employment positions, so a respondent should contact an attorney regarding the effects of a CPO.

Court Ordered Services

- A-OK
A-OK is a mandatory parenting class for divorcing couples with minor children. The class teaches divorcing parents how to maintain an appropriate parenting relationship outside of a marriage by developing communication skills and respect.
- Partnerships in Parenting
Partnerships in Parenting is a seminar for planning and communicating for never married parents. The program is a one-time, 2 1/2 hour session that is facilitated by a “parenting coach”. Participants will receive handouts and learn new ways to enhance their ability to minimize conflict with their child’s other parent
- How to Raise the Best Child Possible
How to Raise the Best Children Possible is a six-week parenting class for divorcing parents where there is some degree of conflict or special circumstances. Parents may be ordered to take this class if there are serious ongoing disagreements on parenting, there is a history of conflict, the parents have very young children, the parents have children with medical or psychological conditions or disabilities, or if one or both parents suffer from mental or psychological conditions or disabilities.
- Our Family Wizard
Our Family Wizard is a website that provides a neutral zone for parent communication to help manage the challenges of shared parenting with a former spouse or partner.
- Mediation Services
Mediation provides disputing parties with an opportunity to settle their differences outside of the traditional Courtroom setting. In mediation, the parties have the opportunity to decide the outcome, rather than having a judge or jury decide for them. The mediator is not a judge, but rather a trained individual employed by the Court. The mediator is there solely to assist the parties in exploring possible solutions to the problem, not to decide the case. For Domestic Relations cases, mediation can be used to settle disputes about custody, support, parenting time, or any other dispute between separating parties.
